A close-up photograph of a red silk saree. The main body of the saree is a deep red color with a fine, woven gold pattern. A wide border runs along the bottom and side, featuring a repeating motif of gold elephants walking to the left. The pallu, which is the decorative end of the saree, is white with a gold checkered pattern. The pallu is folded over the main body of the saree, showing the contrast between the white and red fabrics.
